Fragment of a medieval manuscript page, likely a letter or a short treatise, written in a Gothic script. The text is heavily damaged, with significant portions missing and the remaining text obscured by large, irregular stains and holes. The parchment is aged and discolored, showing signs of wear and tear. The text is arranged in two columns, with a central fold visible. The script is dense and difficult to decipher due to the damage and fading. Some words are partially legible, such as "in nomine" and "in nomine domini".

Faint handwritten text in a historical script, possibly Gothic or similar, on aged parchment. The text is mostly illegible due to fading and the condition of the document.
