Handschrift Freier  Zugang

Fragment of a medieval manuscript page, heavily stained and damaged. The text is written in a Gothic script, with some words in red ink (rubrication). The page is folded and shows significant wear, including tears and discoloration. The text is mostly illegible due to the damage, but some words like "et", "et", "et" are visible. There are also some red markings that appear to be initials or section markers.

Fragment of an ancient manuscript with handwritten text in a dark ink, possibly a Gothic or similar medieval script. The parchment is heavily stained, discolored, and shows signs of significant wear and tear, including a large diagonal crease and several holes. Faint red markings, possibly from a later scribe or reader, are visible on the surface. The text is arranged in several lines across the fragment, though much of it is illegible due to the damage and fading.
