nostris a no

A photograph of a medieval manuscript page. The page is made of aged, yellowish parchment. It features two systems of musical notation. Each system consists of four horizontal red lines. Black square neumes are written on these lines, with some having vertical stems. The text "noctibus vacabat" is written in a black Gothic script between the two musical systems. The parchment shows signs of wear, including some staining and a vertical fold line on the right side.
