Nter alios molestissimos labores, quibus vitæ humanæ cursus conficitur, non minimus est is qui paſſim in muniendis arcibus civitatibus & militum receptaculis collocatur, quibus ab incurſu hostium corpora ac bona ciuitum quavis ratione defendantur. Cui providentia & curæ tuendorum corporum & bonorum ab hoste externo utinam responderet studium & meditatio repellendi illius qui cum mortalibus immortale bellum gerit! nunquam tot animæ in tristissimos Diaboli laqueos incidenter, & miserandum in modum perirent. Iam tanta in hominum mentibus radices egit Securitas, ut inter maximas hostium infenſſ-simorum copias, pleriq; sine muris, sine progugnaculis, sine armis & excubiis imò sine ullo apparatu, veterno quasi oppressi jaceant. Quoquid periculosius dici aut esse potest? Deplo-rata certè est tranquillitas ubi corporis domiciliū, contra hastas, ballistas, & alia instrumenta bellica, ad nocendum & occidendum inventa, clausum septum & munitum est: animus vero domesticis hostibus semper patet, ab ijsque oppugnatur quotidiè & expugnatur.

Quod si alterutrum omittendum sit, quanto satius fuerit, contra eos qui animæ insidiantur fortalitium exstruere, quam qui corpori? E-nimvero quam fragilia sint ejusmodi propugnacula, immensis sumtibus & indefesso morta-lium studio & labore omnibus seculis excitata, quid attinet dicere? plurimarum arcium, quæ olim validissimæ habitæ sunt, cadavera hodiè argumento sunt, nullum uspiani reperiri locum inexpugnabilem. Ingens jacet illium, jacet Corinthus, quæ perpetuitatem consequentis temporis sibi certo polliceri poterant: tum vero quam multi reges potentissimi ex turriū culmine in hostium vincula tracti sunt: exer-citusque Romanus muros Hyerosolymitanos transvolavit. Quod hoc præsentia vō, in quo jam jam vivimus, minus habet dubium, videmus enim quomodo non tantum mirifica & portentosa tormentorum bellicorum inventione & horribili displosione cuncta contremiscant, & subito casu quæ valuerentur: verum etiam quomodo admirabiliū operum machinatores & artifices in excavandis cuniculis & immissis tormentarij pulveris fomentis adeo terribiles flamas excitent, ut obstructis spiralimentis violentia obfluctantis intus flammæ non mania modo, sed & rupes & propugnacula excindant & cum ruina multorum mortalium perfringant. Atq; ut maximè arces muni-tæ ad ferendam obsidionem sint latebræ, impetumq; hostilem ad tempus sustineant: mortem tamen excludere nequeunt, quæ nec ad conscendenda turrium fastigia scalis indigeret, nec ad diruendos muros ariete; sed ut Poëta canit, æquo pede pulsat pauperum tabernas regumq; turres, eosq; ex augustis palatijs in angu-stas admodum domus conjicit. Rectius igitur faciunt & melius sibi consulunt, qui ante o-mnia de profugio animæ sunt solliciti; id quod fecit pudicissima & decora virgo Margareta
